At the 59th Annual Meeting of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents meeting last week in Tucson, Arizona, the following were elected as 1975 officers: J. A. Appomattox Veteran Recalls Early Days Of World War I

Three army draftees stood in the early morning sunshine at the Norfolk and Western Railroad Station in Appomattox as the company's Old Number 6 whistled in the distance.

Families and friends were saying hurried goodbyes to the new "Sammies" and members of the United Daughters of the Confederacy handed each new soldier a small cloth bag which contained a sewing kit, replete with buttons, and the general contents of a first aid kit.

The three new soldiers were Frank P. Glover, Miller Lucado and Jasper Smith. The date was September 5, 1917. Glover, Lucado and Smith were the first three men from Appomattox County drafted into the army for service during World War I.

By virtue of being drafted in alphabetical order, Glover was the first Appomattox County resident to see non-volunteer duty with the U. S. Army for the "War To End All Wars."

Glover now resides in Evergreen, after an absence of 45 years, and recalls some of the events of 1917 rather vividly. Other incidents are recalled with the veil of time imposing a haze which the 78 year old veteran penetrates or ignores, depending on the listener and his own mood.

Glover still has the ditty bag presented him on his day of departure. The contents are still intact, including two letters left there by the ladies in order that the soldiers should find some comfort in them on their first night away from home.

One letter from Glover's mother, Mrs. E. F. Glover, indicates that she is sorry to see her son leave, but that it must be right as God would not permit it to happen.

Farm Bureau Endorses Amendment

The Virginia Farm Bureau Federation board of directors today endorsed the proposed constitutional amendment which would allow the General Assembly to provide grants to students attending private colleges in Virginia.

Virginians will vote on the amendment Nov. 5.

The amendment would allow an extension of the Tuition Assistance Act which currently provides a loan of up to $400 for freshmen and sophomores attending private schools regardless of their financial situation.

These loans are repayable in cash at low interest, or through service or various kinds within the state.

The amendment would also permit the state or a locality to contact with the private colleges for educational or related services.

The amendment carefully avoids any question of aid to religion.

In voting its endorsement, the directors of the state's largest farm organization recognized that Virginia depends upon its private colleges to educate a substantial number of Virginians.

Jewler Robbed

An armed robbery occurred on October 24, 1974, at approximately 10:30 a.m. at Wilkes Jewelers on Church Street in the Town of Appomattox. Mrs. Mabel W. Simpson, owner and operator of Wilkes Jewlers, stated that two Negro males came into her store. One of the subjects brandished a pistol forcing her into the back room where he beat her with a stick and turned a polishing machine on top of her after knocking her to the floor. During this time the other Negro subject was robbing the store on jewels and money.

Mrs. Simpson managed to flee from the store to Poe Hardware, located next door. After she left the store the two Negro males fled the scene. One of the subjects ran from the store wearing jewels in the street as he fled to a car which was parked across the street. The car which he operated turned left onto Atwood Street, picked up the other Negro subject at the back of Poe Hardware, proceeded up Atwood Street to Highland Street, onto Court Street, leading to U.S. Route 460.

After a thorough investigation by the Appomattox County Sheriff's Department with the assistance of Lynchburg Police Department, a warrant was

Daniel Slates Workshop Here

Representative Dan Daniel will spend election day, November 5th, conducting "workshops" in four counties to talk with constituents about their problems with government agencies and legislation pending before Congress.

The Congressman will start off the day with the first of four two-hour sessions, at the County Office Building in Appomattox, from 8:00 to 10:00 a.m.

From there he will go to the Clerk's Office at Buckingham County Courthouse, from 10:30 to 12:30 p.m.

He will be at the Cumberland County Courthouse from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m.

He will close out the day with the final workshop at Powhatan County Courthouse, from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Daniel periodically goes to each of the counties and cities in the sprawling Fifth Congressional Distrct to conduct the "workshop" sessions on the theory that the people he represents should have an opportunity to meet with him in person if they have problems to discuss, without having to go to Washington.

At each of the four stops Daniel will be available to any resident of the Fifth District who is having a problem with a Federal agency or who wishes to discuss legislation pending before the Congress.
